

ABSTRACT

A die assembly including a base, an adjustable post, and an impacting post. The adjustable post is slidably coupled to the base and movable between first and second cutting positions to cut differently sized items. The impacting post is movable between an impact position proximate the adjustable post and a removed position displaced from the adjustable post.

10007699 121001